

Matt Kelley

Matt is a tax attorney in the Indirect Tax practice based in Boston, Massachusetts with a focus on business incentives and credits. Matt specializes in incentives advisory services and also provides technical analyses of current and pending legislation related to indirect taxes. Most recently, Matt has focused primarily on the newly legislated Qualified Opportunity Zone federal tax program.

Relevant experience

- ▶ Matt assists clients in identifying and capturing statutory and discretionary incentives based on their business activity and investments. He spent 3 years working in EY's National Tax practice with a focus on global incentives and assisting clients in their foreign investments before moving to the Boston region to support Northeast investments
- ▶ Matt also focuses on interpreting new and pending legislation regarding indirect taxes and assisting clients in understanding the associated impact and implications of those laws
- ▶ Matt has assisted clients in identifying and capturing tax and financial incentives under state and federal programs including the Work Opportunity Tax Credit, Massachusetts Life Science Council, HIRE Act, Economic Development Incentive Program, the Diesel Emissions Reduction Grant, and most recently, the Opportunity Zone incentive.
- ▶ Matt works with both public and private entities

Education and certifications

- ▶ Matt holds a B.S. in History from Brigham Young University and a J.D. from Western New England University School of Law.
- ▶ Phi Alpha Theta National History Honors Society, President Elect of J. Reuben Clark Law Society